1. This pandemic has taught each and everyone a lesson to contribute for the sustainability of the world. Every thought, every words, every action, every good deeds, every positivity shown has added more flavour and aroma towards humankind, which in turn paves the way for the new beginning, new hope and to inspire and motivate someone's life. At the end of the day what matter most is "YOUR CONTRIBUTION TOWARDS HUMANITY"

CONNECTING HUMANITY

The pandemic has change our every ways of living. The World I used to live in has a future and possible certainty

2. This pandemic has made us to realize that NOT JUST THE FEAR OF VIRUS but hygiene and fitness should always be a part of our life. So the direction should be focused more on health care system, health care workers and researchers because they work tirelessly for the recovery of the world. At the end of the day what matters is "Health is wealth, our wealth should focus more on health care system".

3. This pandemic has highlighted the need to re-evaluate and re-design the strategic goal towards ministry, business, economic activities and ideologies. It has helped us to open our eyes wider especially in helping and equipping the younger generation to be more alert and wiser. It has created vast knowledge and skills to make a better tomorrow. It has also strengthened communities and individuals to support and grow together AS FAMILY.

The year 2020 indeed has been a very tough journey for everyone; yet, it has taught us many lessons in all walks of life. This pandemic has strike beyond manmade distinction of religion, race and region. The world has been busy waging, developing and drawing differences but at the end of the day, nature reminds us that we are all equal, we are all one, we have one identity i.e, WE ARE ALL HUMAN BEING.

"One individual is important in connecting everybody else".

FATHER THE PILLAR OF THE HOME

Fathers deserves a day of praise all over the globe to recognise the gift of caring that fathers show when they teach their child to explore new things, cheer them at a game, watch them perform during school programmes and most importantly, act as a channel of God's love in the lives for the next generation. There is a famous Filipino tagline that describes the ideal of fatherhood: "haligi ng tahanan" ("pillar of the home"). This involves several characteristics.

Foundation of the home: A father is the underlying base or support in all aspects of the family. He is the provider of the basic needs: shelter, food, clothing, education, spiritual attention. Such godly father are rooted and grounded on God. Real fathers believe that God provides everything for their families. And being a father comes with enormous responsibilities. Responsible fatherhood comes in one package that's full of sacrifices and challenges, everything he does with and for his children becomes a precious memory that serves as the backbone and PILLAR for healthy, well-rounded, mature individuals.

Being a best friend:

He tries to create a relaxed, friendly and high-spirited atmosphere, and take pleasure in seeing his children grow up with good spirits. "Fathers, do not provoke your children, lest they become discouraged" (cf Colossians 3:21). He also creates an optimistic environment that shapes his children to be hopeful, motivated and easily be encouraged no matter what storms in life they might encounter.

The father being the PILLAR posses

Tender-heart, kind soul, compassionate heart merciful hand and sympathetic understanding. These attributes results in a healthy atmosphere of communication. "Whoever spares the rod hates his son's and daughter's but he who loves them is diligent to discipline them" (cf Proverbs 13:24). One of the best gift that a father can ever receive is the gift of heartfelt, open communication which is only possible when the children have been brought up not tormented but loved. It is most gratifying for fathers to see the children sharing their real feelings towards their dad through their ups and downs.

Heroes of children: when the world seems to be against them. "As a father shows compassion to his children, so the Lord shows compassion to those who fear him" (c.f. Psalm 103:13). When a strawberry jam cover is stuck, he's there to open it. When one is so messed up, he is the cool guy that saves the day. When everything is turned upside down, his tap on the shoulder or kiss on the forehead suffices to ease the burden.

A father's presence in the family is not to be merely a provider or a disciplinarian. A responsible father must provide also for the spiritual needs of the family, which brings balance within the family. He is a man who is involved, with a personal touch to each children. He does not let the mother do all the household chores but lends a hand as well. He challenges the kids to learn through indoor or outdoor activities, like reading bedtime stories for them. "The righteous who walks in his integrity— blessed are his children after him!" (cf Proverbs 20:7). Real fathers are godly fathers who maintain their close relationship with God and keep their devotion burning. Father the PILLAR of the Home Though ,being human could fail often times but that should not compromise of being a looser or limit the capability of being a Responsible father but rather such failure should lead to more closer and stronger relationship with God so as to be a fulfilling and fruitful PILLAR of the Home.

THE ART OF LIVING

He created life so wonderfully in the mild Whispers of the Valley Moulded each one with tenderness And painted a raindow in the wilderness.

But man has gone against HIS holy one HIS heart is as stubborn as stone Awake ye comrades! Let us step out from this worldly madness For we have limited time And we still need to walk a mile

Let Love conquer our Heart Let us shine like the stars that keeps on shining Only then beautiful will be "THE ART OF LIVING".
